Letter of Agreement

December 21, 2022

Gregory Sholette
[address]

Dear Gregory,

This letter is our agreement to publish your work, tentatively titled

Backstories of Art Activism

(which will be referred to as “the Work”), on the terms and conditions that follow:

Author’s grant

1. You hereby assign to Massachusetts Institute of Technology the exclusive rights, throughout the world, in all languages and media and for all terms of copyright protection, to reproduce, distribute, and publicly display and perform the Work, to revise, translate, and otherwise create derivative works based upon the Work, and to authorize others (by license, assignment, or otherwise) to do any or all of the foregoing.

Author’s warranty

2. You warrant:
- (a) that you are the sole owner of copyright in the Work;
 - (b) that you are the sole author of the Work;
 - (c) that your right to make the grants set out in paragraph 1 is complete and unencumbered;
 - (d) that the Work has not been published before, and that no agreement for publication is outstanding;
 - (e) that no derivative works based upon the Work exist, and that no licenses with respect to the Work are outstanding;
 - (f) that as long as this contract is in force between us, you will not publish or cause to be published any work that is competitive with the Work, without obtaining our written permission in advance (a work is “competitive” if it is published in book or electronic form and deals with substantially the same subject matter);
 - (g) that the Work contains no scandalous, libelous, obscene, or otherwise unlawful matter, does not invade the privacy or otherwise infringe upon the common-law or statutory rights of anyone, and does not constitute or incorporate plagiarism or other academic misconduct; and
 - (h) that the Work contains no instructions that, if carried out by the reader, would cause physical injury to any person.

Warranties (a), (b), (d) and (e) do not apply to material of other authors, or material of your own that has been previously published elsewhere, which you have obtained valid permission, or are otherwise permitted under paragraph 3, to include in the Work.
